Textbook on student behavior wins 2009 Textbook Excellence Award

St. Petersburg, FL, March 4, 2009 --- The Text and Academic Authors Association (TAA) awarded the first edition of Challenging Behavior in Elementary and Middle School, by Barbara Kaiser and Judy Sklar Rasminsky, the 2009 Textbook Excellence Award in the college level Communication/Education/Performing Arts/Visual Arts category. The book is published by Merrill/Pearson.

TAA will present the award at its 2009 Conference on Text and Academic Authoring in San Antonio, Texas, June 27. www.TAAonline.net/TAAConference

TAA created the Textbook Excellence Award in 1992 to recognize current textbooks and learning materials. To be nominated, a work must carry a copyright date for the previous or current year. Entries are not limited to books but may include learning materials of all mediums.

The Text and Academic Authors Association (TAA) is the only nonprofit membership association dedicated solely to assisting textbook and academic authors. TAA's overall mission is to enhance the quality of textbooks and other academic materials, such as journal articles, monographs and scholarly books, in all fields and disciplines, by providing its textbook and academic author members with educational and networking opportunities. www.TAAonline.net
